Riqui in his prime - 2006

The yellow rose, where Riqui and I first stop on our walks, burst into full bloom the day before Riqui departed.

Ramón: Riqui was the third dog in our family, and the first who 'checked out' on his own. That is, he did not require any help from the vet to 'cross over,' which was in keeping with his independent spirit and determination to do everything his own way.

I am grateful for the lesson he taught me about how to die with dignity.

Symbolic moment: Riqui ponders the dive into the unknown.
